COLLEGE HOLDS SIXTH MUSIC FESTIVAL

Bowling Green and the College have seen the materialization of the most artistically and financially successful music festival ever held in the city. Ernest Hesser, head of the Music department of the State Normal College, is to be duly credited.

Six years ago Mr Hesser organized his first festival chorus. He was a pioneer in every sense of the word—a new man in a new town. Now he has all of the business men and the city's Commercial Club backing his enterprise, and helping to make it a success.

Although the patrons were disappointed when they learned that it would be impossible for the Detroit Symphony orchestra to appear during the festival on account of railroad conditions, they were delighted with the Russian Symphony orchestra in its two concerts under the direction of Modest Altschuler.

On Tuesday evening, the large festival chorus of 200 voices, under the direction of Mr. Hesser, gave Mendelsohn's "Elijah." Gustaf Holmquist, bass of Chicago, interpreted the title role. The other solo parts were taken by Mrs. C. E. Lackens, soprano; Clarence R. Ball, tenor of Toledo; and Mrs. F. C. Mooers, contralto, of Bowling Green. Mrs. Megley, at the organ and the Misses Light and Cruickshank at the pianos were the accompanists.

Wednesday evening was children's night, with a chorus of 400 children's voices from the public schools, under the direction of Mr. Hesser. The chorus sang Whitely's cantata, "Hiawatha's Childhood," assisted by Princess Tsiania, the Indian mezzo-soprano. The second part of the program was given by Mr. Cadman, the composer, and the Princess Tsiania. The former introduced it with a short discussion of Indian music, and was followed by Tsiania's singing of a group of his songs.

AN INTERESTING MEETING

On Friday and Saturday, April 23rd and 24th, the Northwestern Ohio Superintendents and Principals' Round Table held its annual meeting at the Bowling Green State Normal College. The subject under consideration on both days was "Educational Tests and Measurements." That this is a matter of paramount interest in the educational world today was evinced by the earnest attention given to the papers presented.

After some introductory remarks by County Superintendent C. D. Perry of Wauseon, President of the Association, the program opened with a series of five minute discussions as follows:

Tests and Scales as Aids to

(a) The School Administrator.

Supt. I. F. Matteson, of Findlay.

(b) The Supervisor

Supt. J. A. Nietz, of Perrysburg.

(c) The Classroom Teacher

Miss Harriet S. Hayward.

High School Tests...Miss Faye Bennett

Arithmetic Tests...J. Robert Overman

Silent Reading Tests...C. F. Rees

Spelling Tests...Herbert Kimmel

The succeeding General Discussion was led by Dr. S. A. Courtis, Director of Educational Research in the Public Schools of Detroit.

At the close of the program, a dinner was served to the members of the Association at Williams Hall. A hundred men were present. The after dinner speakers were Dr. Courtis, President Williams, and Supt. Guiteau. Dr. Courtis advocated greater democracy in the classroom, with increased initiative on the part of the pupils. President Williams urged upon superintendents and principals the necessity for increasing the teaching population. He also spoke appreciatively of the meeting as the first conducted along purely scientific lines. Supt. Guiteau confined his remarks to the new salary law in Toledo and the difficulty in interpreting its provisions.

Friday evening after music by the Treble Clef Sextet of the College—was given over to an illustrated address by Dr. Courtis. To summarize briefly,—he defined education as 'the process of leading the children from what they are to what we conceive they ought to be.' He pointed out that tests are necessary all along that line of march: first, to find the starting point for each child; second, to discover

WHY TEACH SCHOOL

A series of four articles by C. J. Biery, Department of Rural Education. Bowling Green State Normal College.

I. The Financial Rewards of Teaching.

II. Compensations other than Financial.

III. Why Teaching is a good Profession for a Young Man to Try.

IV. A Field for Worthy Service.

One of the first suggestions to come to the mind of a young person thinking of entering the teaching profession is the oft repeated remark that "teaching does not pay." The boy or girl who leaves school and enters an industrial occupation to earn from $5 to $7 a day is pointed out with the remark "How can you expect our young people to spend time and money in preparing to teach when they can earn such wages without preparation or training?" Our own observation compels us to admit that apparently the industrial worker has the advantage. I say apparently.

Let us consider briefly the wage situation of the industrial worker as compared with that of the teacher.

The first condition which forces itself upon our attention is the formation of expensive habits of living which this sudden increase in wages have brought about. It is the testimony of those who have studied the situation that the young people in the industries are spending practically all of their earnings. A father told me that his son who withdrew from high school before completing his course is now making from $200 to $225 a month, is not saving a dollar. Although this is doubtless an extreme case the fact remains that these habits of extravagance are very common among corresponding extravagances are young industrial workers. No evident among young teachers. Their associations do not foster this frenzy for spending. Another fact to be considered is the uncertainty of continuous employment in the factories and workshops. Strikers and shut downs materially decrease the annual earnings of such employees, but do not affect the teacher in the same way. A coal strike or railway strike shuts down thousands of factories and throws out of employment millions of workers. A strike in an industry may affect the schools, as the recent coal strike actually did. But the teacher of the thousands of schools that were forced to close on account of the coal shortage were paid full salaries during their enforced vacations. If a factory burns down or is otherwise destroyed the workmen are thrown out of employment. If a school house is destroyed or the schools are closed on account of an epidemic the salary of the teacher goes on because he is employed for the school year.

The increase in teachers' salaries, although slow in starting is at present in full swing and when the reaction in the industries come, as it must come sooner or later, and wages drop and thousands of workmen are put on part time or thrown

IN answer to the demand for a publication which would foster school spirit and keep our friends in touch with what we are doing, the Country Life Club issues this number of the Bee Gee News desiring to meet the needs which have been presented.

Just now when our student body has increased so remarkably it seems very fitting that we should make our first paper one that will be of especial interest to our new fellow students. The added number of students alone tends to lend enthusiasm to school activities but we know they will take an interest in college affairs and will be glad to grasp all the opportunities which are theirs in our Alma Mater.

Then too, we have in mind our friends outside of school and the alumni who so heartily appreciate all our ambitions and accomplishments. We desire to include in our publication from time to time such things as they would particularly like to know.

Last but by no means the least among our friends are the high school pupils of Northwestern Ohio who look forward to teaching as their profession and who are planning to receive their training in their own Normal College. For these people we hope the Bee Gee News will prove to be a source of pleasure and inspiration.

THE OVERALL FAD

Economy should be practiced by all, especially by students, but in the practice of economy thought should be given the other fellow; that is, will our economical practice or fad cause others undue hardships in proportion to our saving?

Overalls are a necessary part of the equipment of millions of working people and any abnormal demand boosts the prices of all users.

We are glad to note that the overall fad has gained little headway at B. G. S. N. C.

G. W. B.

Professor: Do you think the story shows the development of true love?

Student: Really, Professor, I'm in no position to judge.

A net, a maid,
The sun above
Two games were played,
Result—two love.

Again we played,
This time she won;
I won the maid,
Results—two - one.

When you see a bashful Senior,
Blushing scarlet in the face
Every time he takes his watch out,
There is a woman in the case.

If we were to make a list of the colleges in Ohio, which are coming into prominence, our list would not be complete if we failed to mention Bowling Green Normal College. This college is only in its childhood days, being less than a decade old, we can safely say that no other normal college has made a more rapid development.

To students who want to go to the best Normal College in the state, I want to say that there are advantages to be found at B. G. N. C., which can not be equaled elsewhere. In regard to these advantages I might mention the fact that the expenses are low compared with the cost of attending other colleges. In the first place no tuition is charged. The only cost is the registration fee, which is two dollars a semester. This admits students to all athletic contests, entertainments, lecture course numbers, and whatever else might be given.

Board and room can be secured at Williams Hall at a very low rate, at present board costs $3.50 per week.

No college has more modern buildings than are found at this institution. The laboratories and class rooms are all equipped with what ever is needed to carry on the class work most efficiently.

Advantages are so numerous at B. G. N. C., that it is only possible to mention a few of them here. If you want to take advantage of the best that is offered in college work you will have to come to Bowling Green State Normal College.

COMMENCEMENT ISSUE

Of course, you'll be looking anxiously for the big commencement number of the Bee Gee News. In it you will find just those things which you most wanted to see. It will be more than a mere newspaper. Pictures will be there that you will cherish for many years. It will be a paper you will want among your treasured keepsakes. Watch for the June Bee Gee News!

The tennis courts are by far the most popular spot in the school campus these beautiful spring days. From early morning (even before breakfast, so they say) until late at night, the balls are kept flying back and forth over the nets.

And there are audiences, too! If you are interested, in what "he said" or what "she said," just stop and pay them a call. If you do so, they would like to ask you just one question—Why is it that one never hears the expression "She said that she said" or "He said that he said", but always we hear quoted "She said that he said" or vice-versa?

Fellers: Mr. Young was hoisting a piano at the Chidester last night and it fell three stories.

Shafer: I suppose it broke all to pieces.

Fellers: No, it fell on the soft pedal.

TOLEDO ALUMNAL ASSOCIATION

Short as is the time since the first Commencement there are in Toledo so many graduates of the B. G. N. C. that they have formed an Alumna Association. Their spring meeting was in the form of a luncheon held at the Cherry Street Woman's Building on Saturday, May 8th.

The tables were set in the sun parlor from the windows of which the budding leaves of the trees in the surrounding park could be seen in the delicacy and grace of Corot landscape. The pink sweet peas which decorated the tables were neither brighter nor more cheerful than the conversation of the friends who were meeting there. Old and new interests and activities were discussed with frequent references to distant classmates. There will be openings for many new graduates in the Toledo schools for brides and brides-to-be are numerous among the Toledo alumni.

Already the Association is discussing arrangements for the luncheon to be held during the fall meeting of the Northwestern Ohio Teachers' Association. This is the rallying point of all the old students of B. G. N. C. and several hundred are expected together at that time.

Miss Julia Burke, the outgoing President of the Alumna Association, presided at the very brief business meeting which was necessary for the election of officers. Miss Marie Lerche is the new President; Miss Bauer, Vice-President; Miss Charlotte Southard, Secretary-Treasurer.

The organization is the work of a group of efficient and interesting young people. How many other Alumna Associations have been formed?

FACULTY PARTY

Big Event of the Year

One of the most elaborate social events of the school year was the Faculty Reception tendered to the new, as well as the old students of Bowling Green State Normal College, Friday evening, May 7th.

The reception proper took place in the main hall of the Administration Building from seven-thirty to eight. The guests were greeted with a word of welcome as they passed down the receiving line which was headed by Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Williams. Dean and Mrs. E. G. Walker came next and were followed by the other members of the faculty, Mrs. Sharpe, dean of women, and Mrs. Stella Severns, matron of the Girls' Dorm.

At eight-thirty the guests were bidden to enter the Auditorium, where a splendid program had been arranged. After a brief introductory talk by Dr. Williams, Mr. Carmichael opened the program with two readings entitled "I Ain't Going To Cry No More," and "Little Boy Blue."

This was followed by a series of tableaux representing famous pictures, now on exhibition at the various art galleries of the world. Before each picture Miss Nielson gave a short explanatory talk. Several popular advertisements were likewise represented and the audience was asked to

BUSINESS INTEGRITY

The business world moves and depends upon the integrity of the other fellow to live up to whatever is agreed upon to the limit of his ability and only so long as this remains a fact, can business be reasonably safe and normal.

With or without justification, teachers are accused of considering contracts and business obligations lightly. To be sure, it frequently happens that a teacher signs a contract and a little later a better proposition presents itself and is accepted, simply by a formal note of resignation to the board contracted with.

Such a procedure is not square business. It takes two parties to make a contract. Justice requires the consent of both original parties to the contract to break it.

Any teacher under contract is not at liberty to accept another position until honorably released from contract. On the other hand it is equally unprofessional for one executive to undermine another executive simply because he is in a position to pay more money, unless he first consults with all parties interested.

No board of education or superintendent will hinder in any way the promotion of a teacher. They take pride in assisting them to better positions and when the teacher pays openly and frankly she may always count upon the support of that board of education and superintendent in the future. Exceptions may occur, but in such instances their support has very little value one way or the other.

Be deliberate about signing a contract, but when signed live up to it, if not honorably released.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. Franklin B. Dyer, Member of Board of Education, Cincinnati, O.

Dr. Dyer was the first Dean of the Teachers College of Miami University, and afterward was superintendent of the Cincinnati and Boston Public Schools. He ranks as one of the foremost educators of the nation. His message will be timely and interesting, and everyone should hear him.

The demand of residence halls for women students is attested by the fact that Williams Hall is already practically filled for next year. The need of another dormitory for women is pressing, and promising young women will be lost to the College and to the profession of teaching unless additional dormitory accommodations are provided. A request for an appropriation for another dormitory will be presented to the General Assembly next winter, and the help of all the students and friends of the College will be greatly appreciated. We have now classroom accommodations for one thousand students, and when the Training School building is completed and the classrooms in the Administration and Science buildings now used by the Training School are vacated, the capacity of the institution for adult students will be fully twelve hundred. More dormitories are necessary to enable the College to utilize the classrooms and other facilities for the accommodation of students which the plant affords. The schools are sadly in need of more trained teachers and one of the ways to increase the supply is to build more dormitories.

A TRIBUTE TO OUR TEACHERS

This term is almost over and we will soon leave these halls, which have grown dear to us, in a very short time.

We feel that a fitting close would be experienced did we pay a little tribute to the faithful teachers who have been earnest and tireless, in their efforts to help us in the struggle to place ourselves on a plain a little nearer the ideal teacher.

They surely love the work or we would not meet the smiling enthusiastic countenances each morning as we entered the classroom.

If we have received anything at all to take back with us, it will be crowned with the pleasant faces of our teachers. You are the magnet which will go a long ways in drawing us back next year to receive another inspiration.

May your paths be strewn with flowers and your life be such that many will rise up and call you blessed.

—H. D.

Student: I like that girl just like Beattie's a Democrat.

Van Tassel: The other day when we were going to Put-in-Bay the flies were so thick that the car switched.

SOCIAL

County Reunions of Normal Big Success

On Thursday afternoon July 15th different counties of Ohio attending the Normal School, marched in a body to the fair grounds, amid cheers and singing they gaily trod to the awaiting good time. Different counties had charge of the eats, Henry county sold box lunch very cleverly made up, Van Wert sweetened the crowd with their candy, Williams cooled the crowd off and prevented fights by serving ice cream, Wood county had the staff of life, hot dog sandwiches and coffee, while Hancock had to throw their usual gift and gave to the crowd lemonade.

Everyone participated in the games and became acquainted with their neighbor. This event was to take the place of a formal reception given by the President to the students. The next reunion we expect every member to respond and ring true their beloved county by coming and enjoying with the loyal supporters a good time. We never know what we miss until we hear the gossip which concerns the good that they all have had, so let us all be able to gossip next time.

Country Life Club

Held their regular meeting Thursday evening July 8th, in the chapel of the College. After a shot business meeting, in which the president appointed, Mr. Brown, Miss Hooker and Mr. Dotson, an appeal was made by Mr. Dotson to boost the Bee Gee and make it successful as other college papers have proved to be. The Club were delighted when they heard three of the seven wonders of the school perform "Peg" Roberts sang very sweetly a solo, doing her own accompanying. Mr. Dotson gave us two very clever readings which must have been his favorites by the "vim" he put in them until the chapel was an uproar of uncontrollable college students.

"Peg" Roberts and "Glad" Rifle enchanted the crowd to awe as they rendered a duet, for "music has power to charm the wild beast of the forest." After the literary program they adjourned to the gymnasium where games, music and dancing finished a good time for all.

Country Life Club

On Friday evening July 16th the Country Life Club met for a good time. During the plans for an entertainment to be held July 23rd under the auspices of the Country Life Club. After the business meeting the Club were spell-bound while "Kate" Maloy read "The Buglar" and for encore "Roses Coutesy" which received hearty applause.

The feature of the evening was Molly Feasel when she sang "Old Treasured Memories." Miss Zigger was her accompanist.

The County Agent of Wood Co., Mr. Lewis, talked on "Organized Effect and Rural Communities", which appealed to every member present "To act that each tomorrow find us farther than today." After this excellent literary program, games music and dancing played the part which offered amusement and a good time for all. Philharmonic Club Gave Concert at Normal

—Gee Club Music Was Much Enjoyed

Students enjoyed a good entertainment at the Normal College Thursday night, although the attendance was not as great as was expected. It was a large crowd, however, which enjoyed the splendid program. It was opened with three sprightly and pretty selections by the Philharmonic Club.

Madame Stults made her timely appearance and was warmly and cordially received. Her richness of tone and the firm smooth quality of voice was wonderful. A clever program was given. At intervals the Philharmonic Club gave very good and pleasing selections, directed by Prof. Hesser and pianist Miss Beverstock.

Such entertainments as these should not be passed by, every student is under obligation to the school and courtesy to Prof. Hesser and Philharmonic Club to attend a thousand strong to all entertainments that the College offer, especially for you, such as this one.

THE EXCURSION TO PUT-IN-BAY

Before six o'clock Saturday morning July 10th, an observer could have seen groups of people hurridly making their way to the T. B. G. & S. station. Sure enough for this was the big treat of the summer and every student had eagerly looked forward to this trip which had been planned by the Geography and Science teachers. Promptly at 6:15 the first car left for Toledo and two others followed later. There was very little excitement in this part of the trip unless Mr. Holt's race for the car be mentioned.

The steamer, State of Ohio, left the Madison street dock at 8:30 with all on board prepared to have a good time. This part of the trip proved to be more interesting than the first as some engaged in dancing, some in enjoying the scenery which Mr. Mosely pointed out. But others were more inclined to the seas explored the ship and its mysteries.

At last, after what had seemed an endless time, the boat docked at Put-in-Bay and its eager occupants soon started on their tour of exploration. The company was divided into two groups, one led by Mr. Holt, the other by Mr. Mosely. The first visited Perry's monument and many enjoyed the view of the lake from its summit. After leaving the monument they went to the fish hatcheries where the method of hatching was explained. The next event of importance was the discovery, by Mr. Mosely's group, of the green apple tree. But they did manage to leave it long enough to take a walk around the island and notice the work of the glaciers. The visit to the various caves was enjoyed.

After this the groups disbanded, some to go to the water and other to eat. At seven o'clock all were on board to have the moonlight ride across the lake to Toledo. At 1:30 a group of tired and sleepy people made their way thru the dark and deserted streets to their various homes feeling that they had had a most profitable and enjoyable day.

AMERICANIZATION IN THE SCHOOLS

We are a young country—there's no use in trying to deny it. We have few towns or cities more than three hundred years old and very few. We have no one in this country who can boast, as could "grit Jan Ridd" that his family has lived for four hundred years in the same house, indeed, much longer than that if one only knew. Our cities lack the old buildings and the infinite dirt and filthiness of a real old world town. This is, of course, a great thing, for it means freedom from disease and bad smells. It means everything to our little children, who have so much better chance in life here than elsewhere.

But there is one thing that comes with great age that we do miss, and miss to our sorrow, and that is, tradition. Have you read Kipling's "Brushwood Boy"? Do you remember that the author says of his hero that he learned that there are certain things no gentleman does? To be sure, we have inherited many traditions from our mixed European ancestry, but we have had none distinctively our own. Here is where the war has been of great benefit to us because in a curious sort of a way thousands of Americans felt the same need for the existence of a great body of sound American tradition.

This curious illustration of "group consciousness" has been in existence ever since the close of the war. People of every profession and all ages and colors feel it. But to assemble this body of traditional feeling and to teach it to the next generation is by no means easy. Many different organizations are at the work. The American Legion and the Rotary Club, as well as other great organizations, have done a great deal. If you have not read the resolutions adopted by the Rotary Club of Atlantic City, you should get and read them, even learn them by heart, if necessary. The American Legion is carrying on an advertising campaign in the great American papers, using short four-minute articles always accompanied by the seal of the Legion as their sign manual. But after all, the greatest and best means for teaching, and really the only one that can do permanent good, is the public school.

To state what we are to teach is not a simple matter, for we have to escape from the political philosophy of past generations in a way that many people do not like. But our forefathers dealt with philosophy—we seal the hard facts. So here we have a list of some of the things to be taught all children, native as well as foreign. Do not sit back and say, "Oh, I didn't need to bother with 'em, I have no foreign born children in my room." Perhaps your native born pupils, or possibly you yourself, need Americanization as much as the newest immigrant child in your town. So here they are.

I. America is the land of opportunity for all; we do not expect to hold up our arms and have plums drop into them. What we get, we expect to earn by hard work. Ancestry and wealth count for nothing with us. We stand squarely in our own shoes.

II. America is the land of equal chance. All of us have an equal stake in the prosperity of the land, and are, therefore, equally interested in obedience to the law. We are, all of us, equally bound to obey the law.

III. In a democracy, the will of the majority must be the law, but in a nation constituted as we are, no one need be in the minority all the time. The fact that we are so mixed in this way leads us to the further idea that the majority must, even from the selfish viewpoint, be very careful of the rights of the minority.

IV. Honesty is the only policy. The time is not far distant and indeed, has already been reached in many communities when the simple failure to be honest, even though no law has been broken, is a good ground for action in the courts. The palmy days for the "law-honest" people have passed.

V. In a country so populous and so far advanced as ours, it is necessary to remember that the rights of an individual cannot be very extensive, for he cannot go very far in any direction without bumping into the rights of some one else. With us natural fondness for freedom of action and the constant confusion of liberty with license, it is difficult to get uneducated and unthinking people to see why what they believe to be their rights are necessarily abridged.

VI. Under conditions that might well be called "The Melting Pot," it is very necessary that we treat each other decently in every sense. Children in school must learn what this means. Law makers must realize it. There must be a disposition on the part of all to live up to their promises. There should be no permission given to some to disobey while others are compelled to obey. We should think carefully over the strike question. Have essential people like school teachers, policemen, and locomotive engineers, a right to strike? Is the strike, after all, the best way to secure the improvement of social conditions?

VII. Two great underlying legal principles should be taught all children—the law of responsibility and the law of reasonableness. We are, all of us, responsible for the results of our words and actions. The law intends to be strictly reasonable. To live up to these two great ideals needs a deal of teaching. Be a good sport. Be slow to make a promise—but when made, live up to it. If you get the raw end of a deal, grin and bear it, but don't get caught again. If you believe that real education consists in learning how to live the best possible life, think and ponder on these things.

Helen: Yes, I had lunch, and cantaloupe.

BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBS

The most important asset of the nation is the group of boys and girls busy on our American farms. A republic depends for its very existence upon the maintaining of an intelligent farming group. Boys and girls club work will help to make these rural boys and girls efficient citizens in order that they may function as farmers, home-makers, and leaders in their respective communities. As the city is made over every four generations from the country, it follows that every one in a community, state and nation should be interested in the type of boy and girl that decide to remain on the American farm.

As club work approaches Agriculture and Home Economics from the standpoint of practical life, an effective aid can thus be made to the regular instruction of the schools. Through such contact the teacher Miss Jacobs to History Class? If you read History until twelve o'clock, and then dream about it till morning its really surprising what this class might know in History.

is often enabled to help and direct the boys and girls whose interests in Agriculture or home making activities are aroused. The teacher can further assist directly in organizing club work in a community by getting the cooperation of all agencies concerned, presenting the plan and workings of a club to the pupils and the fathers and mothers, getting the enrollment of those directly interested, being sure that the father and mother is willing, helping to organize the group and plan a suitable year's program of work, following up the individuals during the season, assisting in holding the exhibit and many other things that come as the work proceeds. Many teachers in Ohio have acted as local club leaders and in every case where they have carried through the work successfully they feel it has been an additional training to them as a service to the community. As the club member is carrying on a project which is in itself a definite training and when a club member takes part in the club group activities which is a necessary part of the gradual group development which every boy and girl should experience, there is an existing possibility of a close correlation between club work and school work. Each is essential to the other in order to bring out the best mental, physical, moral, and spiritual development of the boy and girl.

Seventy counties in Ohio are organized to carry out club work in one or more projects. There are twelve project offered as follows; food, clothing, pig, pig production, beef, calf, dairy calf, sheep, poultry, egg laying, potato garden and corn. In all of these projects there are 9193 club members enrolled. Nine counties have county club leaders that give their entire time to the promotion of the work with the boys and girls.

If you do not have a club in your community ask your county leader, superintendent, or county agent to give you information and instructions about organizing one.

THE BEE GEE MAID

You can tell her by her manner
 When you meet her on the street,
 For he walks as if she meant it
 Treading squarely on both feet.

If some friend should introduce her
 You would know her by her talk
 Which is fully as decided
 As the manner of her walk.

She is versed in many matters
 And she always has a view,
 Which she clings to in a manner,
 That would shame the strongest glue.

She is so bright and winsome,
 And your anger will allay,
 While she smiles at little Cupid
 As he throws his darts away.

She is not afraid of work,
 By success her life is stayed,
 How we love her, we adore her!
 Sweet and winsome Bee Gee Maid.

Prof. Walker: Well shoot. Some one else, you missed the point.

Mr. Moore (At Put-in-Bay): It has always seemed strange to me about people who live in lighthouses.

Mr. Moseley (Very much interested): Why?

Mr. Moore: Because they do light house keeping.

Mr. Moore (In History class): Henry Ford, in my mind, is a greater evangelist than Billy Sunday.

Student (Doubtfully) Why so?

Mr. Moore: Because he knocks the Devil out of more of them.

guess the titles. So splendidly were the advertisements portrayed, that very little thought was required on the part of the guests. The program in the auditorium was brought to a close by shadow pictures of the faculty members. This caused a great deal of merriment.

Immediately following, the guests adjourned to the gymnasium which had been turned into a Japanese garden. A color scheme of pale pink and green was carried out in the decorations. Many Japanese lanterns hung suspended from the balcony and cast a glow of pink over the entire scene. Peach blossoms were everywhere in evidence and yards of crepe paper streamers were draped about the hall.

Music for the dancing was furnished by Osbornes' Orchestra. One novelty dance of the evening was when lighted sparklers were passed out to the guests. The girls with their colored dresses presented a gay picture, dancing about carrying their miniature torches.

The color scheme was likewise carried out in the refreshment with the strawberry, vanilla and mint cream. This brought to a close the entertainment for the evening. The student body appreciates the efforts of the faculty in making this the most successful party given at Bowling Green Normal College.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Commencement exercises will be held Wednesday, June 9th, at 10:00 A. M. Pres. J. E. McGilvrey of the Kent State Normal College will give the class address.

Rev. Walter E. Tressel, Pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Fremont, Ohio, will preach the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class on Sunday afternoon, June 6th.

The enrollment to date for the first summer term is 241. This is 27% over the enrollment for the corresponding term of last year.

The College will be in session this year for forty-seven weeks. The third summer term will consist of five weeks, six days a week, which will make the year equivalent to full forty-eight weeks. The second and third summer terms will begin June 21st and August 2nd, respectively, thus affording village and city teachers an opportunity to secure twelve weeks of training after the close of their schools.

July 12-16, will be Club Week in the second summer term. Specialists in boys' and girls' club work, from the Ohio State University will be in charge.

The Lecture Course Committee has secured Madam Myrna Sharlow, prima donna soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and Vera Poppe, cellist, in joint recital for the evening of May 25th. This will be an extra number of the entertainment course to which patrons of the 1919-1920 course will be admitted on presentation of their season tickets. Single admission will be seventy-five cents.

Some folks do not seem to understand yet, that the Normal College is a professional school of collegiate rank. It was organized just at a time when the better class of normal schools were sloughing off many of their out of date practices, and the college officials had sufficient foresight to start the institution on an approved college basis in respect to qualifications of members of the faculty, entrance requirements, standards of work, student activities, etc. This explains why the students of so new a school are able to secure full recognition for their credits from the older colleges and universities. No institution in the country has a better group of buildings and a finer equipment. The general scheme of campus improvement and beautification was started with the construction of the Circle and the Court Street Hall, and these improvements will be extended as rapidly as funds can be secured. The greatest needs of the institution in a material way are another dormitory for women, an athletic field and playground, additional tennis courts, the improvement of Wayne Street, more sidewalks, and the completion of the grading and planting about the buildings. All these improvements will come in time, but they are imperatively needed now. Students can render the College a great service by calling the attention of their senators and representatives to these needs.

An Interesting Meeting

er the sum total of his advancement, the end point; third, to mark the stages in his progress. Dr. Courtis then proceeded to show how tests and measures are of the greatest use in other fields of endeavor. He pointed out, moreover, our improvement in teaching school subjects; and he advocated the use of standard measures as a means of further advancement.

At the close of Dr. Courtis' address, the company descended to the Gymnasium where they were tendered an informal reception by the members of the College Faculty. A social hour followed, enlivened by music and dancing. Light refreshments were served.

The fair weather Saturday brought a good attendance to the second day's session. The College Trio began the program with two vocal selections. Following this music came an address on "Testing Intelligence," by Dr. H. H. Goddard, Director of the Bureau of Juvenile Research, Columbus. His plea was for intelligence tests; and he reinforced his position by charts and statistics regarding defectives in our army during the late war.

Miss Anne Cowden, Director of Special Schools in Toledo, gave an interesting sketch of her work; and Supt. J. E. Collins recounted the treatment given to exceptional children in the schools of Lima.

After a short general discussion led by Dr. Goddard, the members put themselves on record as unanimously in favor of establishing a department for the study of exceptional children at the Bowling Green Normal College.

Thus ended an unusually interesting and profitable meeting of the Round Table.

Why Teach School

entirely out of employment the teachers' wages, judging from the past, will not drop and no teachers will be put on part time or thrown out of employment.

The minimum wage for teachers in Ohio has been doubled. No teacher in the schools of Ohio need now teach for less than eight hundred dollars a year. Trained and experienced teachers will receive much more. Many such schools which two years ago were paying less than $75 are today offering $150 per month. In high schools the increase has been even greater. The writer knows of a small high school of less than 50 pupils which in 1918-19 paid the principal $900, and in 1919-1920 is paying him $1800. No one knows yet what they will have to pay next year. It will not be less for the principal has been offered $2000 elsewhere and the prospects in his present position are so favorable that he has not decided to accept the offer.

Cities are vying with the rural districts in offering attractive salaries; some borrowing money for that purpose. Pittsburg recently borrowed over 1½ million dollars in order to give their teachers a flat raise of $450. Many places in Ohio are raising the salaries of their teachers from $300 to $800 this year.

Bulletin No. 206 of the Institute for Public Service makes this significant statement: "For the able man teacher, the kind of man who makes a hit in law or medicine or engineering, advancement in the teaching profession is rapid—strong men quickly rise to $2400, $3600, $5000. The highest paid city superintendents now receive $12,000, the highest paid university presidents $20,000. Highest pay for elementary teachers now starts at $1500 and goes to $2,750; for high school teachers starts at $1750 and ends at $3600. Any time a strong teacher wants to try something else windows and doors are open and the business world snaps him up."

No longer need a young man or woman hesitate for financial reasons before entering the teaching profession: the profession of teaching is "looking up financially."

The next article will tell of other rewards and advantages that come to the teachers which are far more valuable than merely financial compensation.

During the storm that wrecked our smokestack, Fellers and Hamm were disputing as to who remembered the windier day.

Said Hamm, "In 1918 it was so windy that it took the crows three hours to fly to St. John's woods from over the College."

"That's nothing," replied Fellers; "In France it was so windy that the crows had to WALK."

Mr. Holt: Your answer reminds me of Quebec.

Chamberlain: How's that?

Mr. Holt: Because it's founded on such a high bluff.

ATHLETICS—AN ASSET

Before we can have inter-collegiate contests of the highest class, we must have the "boosting" and support of the entire student body. The fellows have been coming out for practice regularly each evening, but it is just among themselves, for there is no one to encourage them in the least degree.

Furthermore, we have but a few men here at College, and for the good of the institution and for the good of the game, let every man, physically able, help the athletic cause by coming out for practice in either baseball or tennis.

The greatest asset that college may have is the life of the student body. This is only an asset when each student is helping his brother student and all are "boosting" for the common good. When everybody begins to "knock", the student is a liability to the college.

Last fall, we had a fairly successful football team, but we will have a better team this fall. When you go home, "talk up" B. G. S. N. C. Let us get students here and above all, men students, men who can help the College's athletic and social life. It requires at least a squad of twenty-five men to make a successful football eleven.

Last fall we had about thirty men out for football, that is, we had about thirty men in the College, but each was helping the game directly or indirectly. But we lack men here, as was stated before, let every student urge at least one man to come to B. G. S. N. C. Show him that he can get all the advantages here that a larger institution offers, but none of the disadvantages of a large university.

Track will be added to the athletics of the College, as soon as sufficient men are secured to ably represent the College in this line of sport.

Baseball is one of the major sports of the College, and we all sincerely wish that the best possible team that could represent B. G. S. N. C. should do so.

So far we have had two games of baseball and one tennis match. We lost one game of baseball and the tennis match, but we shall surprise the boys from Bluffton when they play their return game here. Think of playing a game of baseball under the handicap that our boys played at Bluffton.

We won our first game with Findlay by a score of 13-10. Switzer pitched for the locals and struck out ten men during the contest.

The game was marked by pile driving hitting by both sides. We made five runs in the first, one in both the second and fifth, and six in the ninth making a grand total of thirteen.

In the second game played at Bluffton we lost by the overwhelming score of 13-0. Errors played a prominent part in our defeat. The game was played at about six in the evening and darkness stopped the contest at the end of the seventh inning.

His eyes were blue,
Alas. Alack!
He winked at her,
Now his eyes are black.

REGULAR MEETING COUNTRY LIFE CLUB

The Country Life Club met Tuesday evening, May 4th, in the auditorium. It was the first affair of the kind in which the new students were invited to participate.

The program opened with the singing of the College song, followed by current events, short readings, and several musical selections. At the close of the program the members and guests adjourned to the gymnasium for the usual social hour. Contests, games, and dancing were participated in. Music for the dancing was furnished by Miss Mary Frew.

PERSONALS

Miss Lillian Tressel who will graduate in June from the degree course has been offered a teaching fellowship in French at Syracuse University for next year. A fine compliment to Miss Tressel and to the Normal College.

Miss Ila Garn and Miss Frieda Agner who will graduate from the diploma course in Home Economics were invited to visit Bucyrus and liked the place so well that they will join the teaching staff next year at a salary of $1200. Looks like it pays to prepare to teach Home Economics.

Mr Clateus Stough, degree student of the class of '20, will get his mail at Delta next year and teach Science in the high school at $1700.

At the closing exercises of the Perry Township schools in Wood county last week, three rural teachers were present who are to receive $1350 in rural schools next year. "Verily, the world do move."

NEW BOOK AND MOTOR MEMBERS

At the regular Spring meeting of the Book and Motor Society held Thursday, April 29th, the following students were elected to membership in the society:

Ross Herr, Hazel Lantz, Goldie Meyers. Announcement of the election of these new members was made by Pres. H. B. Williams, and after the announcement the hearty cheering of the student body showed their appreciation of the honor won by their class mates.
